Current issues:

1. The Nirbhaya gang rape case:

Is it justified to judge a juvenile just on age and not on nature of crime?

In India, the Juvenile Justice Act makes no distinction on the nature of crime for those under 18 and allows for a maximum of three-year term in a reform home.

Many countries do not make the distinction between adult and juvenile absolute. They adjust it to the nature and seriousness of the crime. Do you think that there is an urgent need in India too?

2. The Union government is weighing various options, including shutting petrol pumps at night, to reduce fuel demand as it looks at ways to cut the massive oil import bill. Do you think the proposal by oil minister M Veerappa Moily to shut petrol pumps at night is a viable option or it will lead to other problems?

Shutting petrol pumps at night a solution or a problem?

3. Ceasefire violation by Pakistan:

Do you think Government of India should call off peace talks with Pakistan?

4. Woman 's property rights in india:

In India, a woman's property rights vary depending on her religion, marital status, the state she comes from and her tribal identity. Should the status quo be maintained or is it time for society, for the government to give women equal property rights irrespective of all else?

5. Are girls discouraged from pursuing sporting aspirations because society believes sports is a man's world?

6. IS INDIA'S JUSTICE SYSTEM FAILING?

With corruption seeping into the legal system and long delays for court cases, is India's justice system serving the nation well?
